Success Story:

One of our littles, a young man, has never been a strong student at school. He has always lacked confidence in himself. He was matched 2 years ago and in the past 18 months his grades at school have consistently improved. This past school year he made the honor roll. His teachers report that he now frequently answers questions in class and is more motivated than ever before. The little's mom attributes these positive changes to the time her son has spent with his big. She says that he has been an outstanding role model.
